

‘Exceptional learners who are nurtured and prepared for tomorrow’

Friday 13th February 2026

Message from Mrs Morgan

As we approach the half-term break, I am pleased to share some recent developments and important information about our school.

Our recent parents' workshop on Non-Violent Resistance (NVR) has been particularly successful, providing valuable insights and strategies for supporting children at home. We are delighted to announce that two additional workshop sessions remain available. Parents interested in attending should contact the school office to secure their place. These sessions offer an excellent opportunity to gain practical knowledge and support strategies that can positively impact your child's development. They will take place on Thursday 26th February and Thursday 5th March from 9-10am.

Feedback from the parents who attended the session on the 4th February -

"Really interesting and inciteful, thoroughly enjoyed the session and definitely want to know more."

"It was great, very informative. Very informal and relaxed, lovely lady delivering, who used personal experience to explain. Would definitely want to do the full course."

"The lady was very friendly and personable."

As we prepare for the upcoming break, we extend our warmest wishes to all our families. We hope this period provides an opportunity for rest, relaxation, and quality time together. We look forward to reconvening after the half-term, ready to continue our learning adventure.

Class Article – Outdoor Learning

The groups have been busy this term working together to build a waterproof den in our outdoor learning space.

The work involved working together to choose the right size branches, sawing up the branches and making sure there was no gaps in the structure.

The final test was to see if the structure was waterproof. The result was a lot of giggles and some dampness.
